Dear Friends in Christ,

As Catholic Community Services and Catholic Housing Services embark on a second Century of Hope, we are grateful for our deep roots in the Seattle Council of Catholic Women, who answered Bishop Edward O’Dea’s call to aid orphans and widows a century ago. Their zeal to live the Gospel in word and deed was the “mustard seed” that has grown into our extensive Catholic Charities network in Western Washington.

This report offers an impressive account of service and financial stewardship. More importantly, however, it reflects the Church’s faith-filled care for those who journey in poverty and despair. Every day, committed staff and coworkers remain true to the vision of our founders through life-changing works of mercy to house and shelter the homeless, feed the hungry, care for frail elders, and provide crucial support for families in crisis. Your generosity makes it possible for Catholic Community Services and Catholic Housing Services to deliver essential, life-affirming services to our poorest and most vulnerable neighbors in Western Washington. On behalf of our staff, boards of trustees, and most especially all those we are privileged to serve, I thank you for your prayers and support as together we respond to Jesus’ call to put into action the good news of his kingdom.

Sincerely in Christ,

Most Rev. J. Peter Sartain
Archbishop of Seattle
